The Old Man and the Sea

The Old Man and the Sea is a Ernest Hemingway master piece. In this short book Hemingway show us all your capacity of eloquence and in the middle of an extraordinary simplicity writing way we find deeply emotions. Hemingway usually talking about the daily things the routine full of bar's, pub's drinks and folly. In one of his firsts books The Sun Also Rise him talk about bullfighting and a group of friends going to Spain for see the bullfighting show. Read this book is like to talk with a friend and listening his trip story replete of folly, dinks and bar's. Although in Old Man and the Sea the story is different, talking about an old cuban fisherman go fishing and spend days trying catch a giant merlin. In his agonizing battle against the fish we can saw a proud old fisherman with any regrets in your live and who see the world with simplicity and like it really are. The simplicity is a quite characteristic of Hemingway and his characters, but in this book it reaches a different level with a deeply emotional simplicity.

“He looked across the sea and knew how alone he was now. But he could see the prisms in the deep dark water and the line stretching ahead and the strange undulation of the calm. The clouds were building up now for the trade wind and he looked ahead and saw a flight of wind ducks etching themselves against the sky over the water, then blurring, then etching against and he knew no man was ever alone on the sea.”
